Established: First presented as Achievement Award in 1975
Description: To recognize outstanding contributions to the field of Industrial Electronics.

Administration: Administered by the Industrial Electronics Society Awards and Honor Committee (IES A&H Committee).
Eligibility: Must be member of IES.
Prize: $5,000 and Certificate
Funding: Funded by IEEE Industrial Electronics Society.
Nominee Solicitation: The IES A&H Committee calls for nominations through the society's printed and electronic newsletter.
Basis for Judging: May be given for a single major accomplishment or for a career of recognized achievements. The award is not necessarily given yearly: awarded only when suitable candidates can be identified.
Presentation: This is the Industrial Electronics Society's major award and is awarded at the Society's major international conference.
